PROGRAM OF STUDY

The bachelor of arts degree program in Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major concerned with the interconnected and interdependent nature of the contemporary world. Its main task is to understand the flow of bodies, capital, power, and ideas that shape locations across the planet and make them part of a radically unequal but nonetheless shared global space. Students employ interdisciplinary methods and analytics, and take courses across the College in programs such as environmental studies, public health sciences, anthropology, and history, or in area studies.

Like the concept of the "global" itself, the major is not limited to specific sites or themes, but rather aims to provide students with a critical analytical framing with which to pursue their own scholarly interests. These are in areas as diverse as climate change, human rights, public health, international law, and urban studies. Students are guided by a set of thematic tracks to help them narrow their focus and develop an expertise within a given field, while engaging with the broader theoretical thrust of the major. Thanks to this flexibility, Global Studies students are often double majors and go on to a wide variety of careers.

It is strongly recommended that students intending to join Global Studies declare their major by the end of their second year in order to make sure that they are included in mailings on up-to-date deadlines and reminders necessary to complete the major.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

Students must complete a total of 1000 units (1200 units if a student chooses to write a BA thesis in order to pursue honors), a research activity, a final research paper/project/thesis, and a language requirement, broken down as follows:

Global Studies I (Second Year)

All students are required to take GLST 23101 Global Studies I. This course is offered annually in the Autumn Quarter. Without exception, any student wishing to enroll in the BA Thesis seminar must have completed this course first.

Methods Course (Second/Third Year)

In their second or third year, students must take either a designated Methods course from a Global Studies instructor, or they may enroll in an approved Methods course in another program. This course may double-count with a second major when appropriate, but all students enrolling in the thesis seminar must have completed a Methods course suited to their proposed research methodology. Approved courses outside of Global Studies include: ANTH 21420 Ethnographic Methods, ARCH 28402 Spatial Analysis Methods in Geographic Information Systems, SOCI 20001 Sociological Methods, or STAT 22000 Statistical Methods and Applications.

Global Studies II (Third Year)

All students are required to take GLST 23102 Global Studies II. This course is offered annually in the Autumn and Winter Quarters. This course prepares students to undertake Global Studies research for either the thesis seminar or a Capstone project. Without exception, any student wishing to enroll in the BA Thesis seminar must have completed this course first. Students seeking to enroll in Global Studies II outside of the normal timeline must receive prior approval from the program.

Thematic Tracks (4 courses)

Beginning in their second year, students select a major track that will help them to focus their coursework. These tracks are: Political Economy; Health, Environment, and Urban Studies; Law, Borders, and Security; and Race, Gender, and Religion. Students take a minimum of four courses from their major track. These courses must come from the approved course list posted on the Global Studies website or may be selected in consultation with Global Studies faculty. Please note that this is the only official list of approved courses. We recommend that students do not rely on MyPlanner.uchicago.edu for this information as it may lack the most up-to-date information.

Electives (3 courses)

Electives must be selected from the approved course list posted on the program website. These may include any course on that list, including additional courses from a student's major track. Students may petition for the addition of courses in the social sciences or humanities and relevant to the themes pursued in Global Studies. These may include courses such as the European Civilization in Paris program or East Asian Civilizations in Beijing, as well as other courses that may not fit within the specific tracks, but may not double-count to fulfill College requirements.

Language Requirement

Students complete the language requirement by demonstrating competence equivalent to six quarters of language instruction. Ways to demonstrate such competence include, but are not limited to:

- Taking six quarters of language courses in a single language
- Testing into a language course at a level beyond 203 or equivalent
- A combination of the two points above (for example, testing into a 201-level course and taking three quarters of language courses)
- Passing a proficiency exam
- Demonstrating competency/fluency through other documentation (for example, high school diploma obtained in a country where the language of instruction is not English)

Research Activity Requirement

Students must have a supervised research experience before they graduate. Research activities include serving as a research assistant to a professor in any capacity, or participation in volunteer, employment, or internship opportunities relevant to the major. Students should work with the appropriate program adviser to identify opportunities and should have their activity approved ahead of the experience itself. Most activities should last no less than six weeks, though intensive programs of shorter duration may be considered. The research activity may be linked to the student's BA thesis and ideally serves as an introduction to that topic. International experiences are encouraged for the completion of this requirement, but the requirement may be met with domestic projects dealing with global issues (for example, an internship with a domestic NGO or lawmaker).

Thesis or Final Paper/Capstone

Students have two options to complete the Global Studies major:

BA Thesis and Seminar

Students may opt to write a BA thesis organized around a contemporary global issue. Students opting to write the thesis must enroll in a two-quarter BA thesis seminar (GLST 29800 BA Thesis Seminar I and GLST 29801 BA Thesis Seminar II) in the Spring Quarter of their third year and Autumn Quarter of their fourth year. Enrollment in the seminar is contingent on successful completion of Global Studies I and II, and an approved methods course. The final version of the BA thesis is due by the end of the second week of the quarter in which the student plans to graduate. Successful completion of the thesis requires a passing grade from the faculty reader.

Students who hope to count their thesis for two different majors must first obtain written permission to do so from the directors of both programs; otherwise, they will be required to write two theses. Regardless of the requirements of the second major, students are required to complete 200 total units of credit of the thesis seminar. All students who plan to house their thesis in a BA/MA program such as MAPSS or CIR must enroll in the spring thesis seminar prior to joining that program.

The BA thesis and seminar are requirements for students to graduate with honors in the Global Studies major.

Final Paper/Capstone

Students may opt out of writing a thesis, and instead produce a shorter final paper (approximately 20–35 pages) or project such as a podcast, short film, artwork, or other multimedia project. These projects must be approved by the Associate Director of the program and/or the student's program adviser. In the case of projects deviating from the standard paper format, students must demonstrate that they have the skills and/or training in their chosen medium. This paper or project should grow out of one or more of the student's courses in the major track, and should be developed in coordination with that course instructor. This project is not required to rely on original research but must go beyond standard course assignments to demonstrate a deep engagement with course themes as related to the Global Studies major. If students choose to write a final paper with a different instructor or separate from their coursework, they must sign up for an independent reading course with the instructor who will guide a final paper. Final approval of this paper or project should be sent in writing by this instructor.

HONORS

Students with an overall GPA of 3.2 or higher and a major GPA of 3.5 or higher will be eligible for honors. To be awarded final honors, students must have an overall GPA of 3.2 or higher, a major GPA of 3.5 or higher, complete both quarters of the BA thesis seminar, and write a BA thesis judged "high pass" by the faculty reader.

ADVISING

Students should select their courses for the Global Studies major in close consultation with the Global Studies faculty. Students are assigned to a Global Studies program adviser based on their year in the College. The Global Studies program publishes a list of courses approved for the major each quarter.

Students are required to meet with their Global Studies program adviser annually to go over their Degree Program Worksheet (<https://college.uchicago.edu/advising/tools-forms/>) and to be sure they have fulfilled all requirements based on their plans for completing the Global Studies Final Paper/Capstone or the Global Studies BA Thesis. Students who do not declare the major and/or who do not meet with their program adviser by the end of Autumn Quarter of their third year may be at risk of missing important deadlines and being ineligible for honors.

GRADING

Students who are majoring in Global Studies must receive quality grades in all courses meeting the requirements of the degree program (i.e., they cannot use Pass/Fail or audited courses for major requirements).
